September 2025 White-Tailed Deer on campus

WILDLIFE: On Campus!

During your time at LU, if you spend any time outside, you're sure to see deer, Canada geese, foxes, squirrels, chipmunks, and maybe a bear.

Pictured below is a young bear who found himself 10 feet up a tree on campus before being "relocated" by animal control. Usually, none of these animals will be out to get you, but if you notice them trying to get a little too close — maybe just continue on your way.

DIRECTORY

If you're part of the Zoomer Generation, like us, you probably use Instagram. There are a number of really great Lakehead pages that will be helpful throughout your time here— regardless of your screen time. (we don't judge)

@thelakeheadargus (student opinion, global events)
@lakeheadreslife (campus living, residence activities)
@mylakehead (widely considered to be the university's "main")
@lakeheadlife (student life, wellness, and affairs)
@lakeheadtwolves (athletics)
@lakeheadintllife (international student affairs)
@lakeheadlibrary (our campus library)
@lakeheaddining (campus food services)
@lakeheadshw (student health and wellness)
@lakeheadcampusrec (intramurals, group fitness)
@lusu_tbay (your student union)

Welcome to Thunder Bay

where there's more than just snow...

The Argus is an independent and student-run editorial that operates out of Lakehead University. Since 1966, we have worked diligently as a branch of the Lakehead University Student Union to voice the news and events on behalf of Lakehead students.

A tale of two cities...

Thunder Bay was once two cities separated by the McIntyre River. As a matter of fact, it's the same river that feeds Lakehead's Lake Tamblyn. Each part of the city is worth exploring, assuming you can find its hidden gems.

Tips to Succeed For the Rest of Your Life

- Be involved - To succeed in life, you can't just focus on your work. Find something to work on that you've never tried before.
- Say yes - Things may seem frightening when you've never done them before. Give an honest attempt anyway.
- Find your own way - Solutions are never one-note; they never will be. Make a schedule that works for you.
- Make your money work - Your money is your freedom. Keep it close, make it grow. Don't make it rain.
- Fall, don't run, to love - Real love will be simple and accidental. Never go out looking for someone to love. You'll end up finding trouble.
- Get messy (sometimes) - There's always time to let loose and get messy (in moderation). This is when you learn the most about yourself.

Lakehead University was given royal assent in 1965.
In 1966, The Argus Student Newspaper was founded.

uh oh... that's the worst guy to talk to on campus. How come you ask?

He doesn't think to avoid the six conversation

DON'TS

1. Advice Giving - Never give it before you're asked to. When you are, avoid piling it on.
2. Being "right" - Know when it's right to be right, and when you're wrong
3. Being All-Knowing - Let them tell you about it, even if you've heard it all before. They will remember this.
4. Interrupting - Unless you're confused, need to go to the bathroom, or watching something shocking happening behind them, it can wait.
5. Story Topping - Ask a question, find something relevant to talk about, then maybe the other person might find your story
6. Bright Siding - People just want to be heard, whether it's good, bad or ugly. Listen and double down; it's fun to complain with someone.
