

Lakehead Nor'Westers Go International

Lakehead University has scored another "first" in the sports world.

The young university is the first Canadian University to "go International" with the announcement November 23 that they have been accepted as a member of the United States National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The NAIA is an association of small and medium-sized United States Colleges and universities including such names as Florida A and M, Boston State University and, closer to home, the University of Minnesota in Duluth.

Lakehead University will thus be able to compete for national United States championships in baseball, basketball, cross country, gymnastics, soccer, swimming, tennis, track and field, wrestling, football, bowling and hockey.

The University will still maintain its Canadian affiliation with the Ontario Intercollegiate Athletic Association, taking on what amounts to dual citizenship. It will be the only college or university in Canada or the United States which may win championships in both countries.

In the past two years the University has won the Ontario Intercollegiate squash, raquets, ski, golf and table tennis championships competing against other universities in Ontario. Last year their basketball team won the Lakehead title and the hockey team won its conference title in the first year of competition against teams from the United States.

To become eligible to compete in National Championships, Lakehead University will first have to be accepted into leagues or conferences in Minnesota, Wisconsin or Michigan.

They must win their league, then play off against winners of other leagues in the same state, thus representing that state or district at the National playoffs.

The Nor'westers are already members off one American-based conference, the International Collegiate Hockey Association. Last year they competed against teams from Wisconsin State University, St. Cloud State College, Bemidji State College and Lake Superior State College of Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, winning 10 games against two losses to capture the conference title.

The pull from the United States was a natural attraction according to athletic coordinator Bill Shannon, the man behind the move.

"Our geographical location really gave us no other choice," he pointed out. Although we are a member of the OIAA we cannot compete in most team sports because of the travelling costs involved in any league which might be arranged."

ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIP QUESTION

The move is expected to bring comment from other universities over the controversial question of grants-in-aid for worthy athletes. A well-recognized point in the United States, such athletic scholarship assistance is still frowned upon in Canadian athletic competition.

Lakehead University will be able to offer grants-in-aid in the future if it so desires. No set policy has been established in this regard but the University's new Athletic Director George Birger, formerly from the United States, has set views on the subject.

"There is no reason why we should allow our fine young athletes to be pirated away because of our outdated concepts on athletics," he explained. "A young athlete who maintains a high academic standing should be rewarded on a controlled basis for his abilities and for the honor and publicity he brings to the university and the city. Young Don Doman-sky and Arjan Gelling are fine examples of how athletes can bring great honor to our area. We can't, of course, expect to keep people of this calibre here at the present time but we should be trying to keep these boys in Canada. Once they have gone across the border to study, many do not return. It is part of the brain drain."

Hockey coach Henry Akervall, the captain of Canada's 1964 Olympic hockey team, pointed out that hundreds of young hockey players from Canada go south every year on athletic scholarships. "None of the top United States Colleges could maintain their calibre without our Canadian hockey talent," he claims. "But a Canadian boy shouldn't have to leave his country! If he wants to go — that's fine. But he should at least have the opportunity of one or two Canadian alternatives."

With athletic grants-in-aid or without, Lakehead University faces the future of stiff international competition with an optimistic attitude.

George Birger summed up the feeling of the athletic department when he said: "The main point is that our top athletes will now receive the recognition they deserve. And the door is wide open for Lakehead University to build up an international reputation, particularly in sports such as hockey and basketball."

AMS Council passes budget

A total of 32 budgets were presented to the AMS Council for ratification Saturday, November 25. Of this number, 29 were passed with few enquiries pertaining to details not shown on the actual budget. The other three were passed on condition that these clubs be recognized by Council.

The three clubs in question are the Lakehead University German Society, the Art Club, and the Sociology-Anthropology Club. The constitution of the latter has been tabled by Council.

This year's total expected revenue is approximately $49,775. The total expenditure budgeted for is $55,343. The deficit is $5,568.

The reason there is a deficit budget, explained Treasurer Don Lees, is because the clubs and organizations who get a part of the AMS budget very seldom spend all of it. Clubs are expected to carry through with their programs as laid out.

The following is a list of some of the budgets passed with the amount they were subsidized to last year.

"It has taken this long to pass the budget since it has taken this long to compile it," said Mr. Lees. "We used a different system this year. The financial committee went over all the budgets before they came to Council for ratification. Instead of taking 12 hours as it did last year, Council has spent three on it so far, and I think that another one will do the job."

Students voice lack of confidence

Students' constitutional right of petition for a meeting of the AMS Council was exercised for the first time in the history of Lakehead University, Wednesday, November 22.

Some 32 students signed a petition circulated the Friday previous calling for this special meeting.

For Lakehead, it has been a year of agitation, dissatisfaction, and resignation. This meeting brought to light the latest grievances.

The Council, with its newest President Bill Weiler, faced approximately 200 students to hear prepared resolutions, all reflecting a lack of faith in the Council and the executive.

The resolutions were available only to the councillors and to the members of the committee presenting them.

The lack of faith reflected in the resolutions was a result of claimed infringements on student rights, constitutional ambiguities, financial mismanagement, the handling of Council resignations, the parking issue, the committee system used by the Council, and various other dissatisfactions with student government.

On Mr. Weiler's request, Bert Baumann, Chief Justice, agreed to chair the meeting. It became apparent, however, that even the constitution drafted by Mr. Baumann was "under fire", and that the chair was therefore not impartial. Further more, no student could be impartial, being an AMS member. Mr. Larry Anderson of the Psychology Department was asked to take the chair, and agreed to take over for the rest of the meeting.

The Council President set a time limit on the meeting, pointing out that he had to catch a plane for Toronto later in the afternoon, and that many councillors had two o'clock classes.

UNITED FRONT

Council appeared to take a solidified stand in defense of its policies, and in the acceptance of some of the arguments and criticisms of the committee of students.

The general body in attendance appeared to be swayed according to the eloquence of each speaker involved.

PREPARE BRIEF

Mr. Weiler agreed to prepare a brief in reply to the criticism and remedies proposed by those initiating the meeting. This brief apparently will be given to the whole student body. A straw vote was called, the results indicating that the original resolutions should also be made to the whole student body.

But in the words of Karl Goodwin, Associate Justice, "As the battle raged, most students either played cards, drank coffee and laughed, or didn't give a damn as long as they knew they could get their parchment."

Mike Barkwell

Barkwell elected V.P.

Mike Barkwell, second year Economics student, is the new AMS Vice President.

Mr. Barkwell was elected by Council at its regular meeting Tuesday, November 21, in accordance with the AMS constitution. He succeeds Bill Weiler in that position, Mr. Weiler taking over as President following the resignation of Peter Young.

A native of Southern Ontario, Mr. Barkwell has attended Lakehead for two years, and plans to return next year.

Club Notes

Psychology Club

It appears the Psychology Club has again succeeded in filling its repertoire with interesting and informative details.

The meeting of Nov. 23 focused on one type of brainwashing used by Communists on certain prisoners of war. The technique, as presented through a tape recording plus a commentary delivered by Mr. K. A. Allan, involved a gradual re-education of the soldiers, but with no physical punishment. The men were submitted to a moral degradation achieved through the censoring of their mail which allowed only "bad news" through. They were taught to mistrust their companions by an "informer" system. The end result of this drill was that they would endure up to six hours a day of Communist propaganda starting at 7:00 in the morning!

The programme also called for a 40 minute film on Schizophrenia but, because of the responsive discussion about the tape, there was not time.

The film may be shown at the Dec. 7th meeting plus anything else that is scheduled. Don't miss it.

Winter Carnival Committee

The Winter Carnival Committee had its first meeting last Thursday. Winter Carnival Chairman is John Lee, Arts III. Other Executive positions still have to be filled, so come out and be active in the biggest social event of the year.

Major committees have been selected but more bodies and new ideas are desperately wanted. Meetings are held weekly — time and place will be found on the Carnival bulletin board in the tunnel.

Societies and clubs are reminded that they should get in touch with the Carnival Chairman concerning floats and sculptures. There are also a few open dates, both afternoon and evening, for society or club events.

Circle K the men's club

Circle K is a service organization for college men operating on the campus, and is similar to Kiwanis and other service clubs.

Its objects are to emphasize the advantages of the American and Canadian way of life; to provide an opportunity for leadership training in service; to serve on the campus and in the community; and to promote good fellowship and high scholarship.

It is a leadership and character - building group which gives primacy to the human and spiritual rather than to the material values of life.

To co-operate in maintaining that sound public opinion and high idealism which makes possible the increase of righteousness, justice, patriotism and good will is only one of the group's ideals.

A Circle K club is sponsored in co-operation with College or University officials by a local Kiwanis club which is composed of leading business and professional men of the community.

Kiwanis does not sponsor these clubs in order to build future Kiwanians.

This activity is part of the Kiwanis programme of service to youth and community.

Circle K clubs fulfill this object by service to the campus and community by developing good citizens and leaders of the future.

As in Kiwanis, the Circle K motto is "We Build," a building for justice, liberty, democracy, and a better world in which to live.

The Circle K is not just an organization, but a driving force, developing the leadership for tomorrow, while it creates a better college or university centre today.

A Circle K club is first and last a service club.

There are many activities which Circle K clubs have developed and conducted on campuses and in communities.

These include publication of campus aids such as directories; tours of campuses; provision of scholarships; promoting of blood donor drives and fund-raising programmes for national charity drives, tutoring programmes for students and others.

Circle K is an opportunity for college men because it provides a means of leadership in a college community, that service clubs are giving in the business and professional world.

Information on local Circle K groups will follow in next week's edition of the Argus.

Dow protester at U. B. C., destroys polystyrene cup. Polystyrene is used in napalm. photo - Ubysey

The Dow Protests

A question of morality?

By D. John Lynn,
Canadian University Press
Hold a match under one of those foam take-out coffee cups. It bursts into flames. It's made of polystyrene. So is napalm.

Polystyrene is made in Canada. Some goes into the manufacture of take-out coffee cups, Christmas decorations, and toys. Some is sent to the United States as an ingredient of napalm, which is being used by the U.S. in Vietnam.

The Canadian manufacturer of polystyrene is Dow Chemical Co. of Canada, a subsidiary of the parent Dow in the U.S.

Campuses across Canada have risen up in protest — in some cases violent protest — against Dow recruiters interviewing on Campus.

The Canadian protests began on Nov. 8 when a small group handed out literature at the door of the placement centre at the University of Waterloo.

A week later UBC students followed suit, but this time they blocked the doorway. At Windsor last week, campus Chaplain Bill Christensen led a similar group in protest, but there was no violence.

Then Monday and Tuesday, Toronto students kept a Dow recruiter and U. of T. vice-president Robin Ross captive until the Dow representative finally agreed not to continue his three-day recruiting program.

The Student Council at the University of Victoria shared these sentiments when they went on the record opposing the use of napalm. Dow recruiters were expected a week after council took this action.

USE OF NAPALM IMMORAL

Why all these protests? Demonstrators see it as a moral issue.

Harold Kasinsky, a University of California biochemist, who has made a study of napalm, reports:

"A napalm B fire reaches a temperature of almost 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit in a few seconds. The polystyrene component of napalm B acts like a glue at high temperatures, holding the fire to a particular surface."

"The new napalm B is so sticky and burns so intensely that it cannot be removed from human skin without causing whole chunks of flesh to come off."

Protestors say such a weapon is immoral — much more immoral than Atomic bombs. The U.S. Dow company makes napalm bombs for use in Vietnam. The protestors claim this is contributing to an immoral act.

Part of Dow's supply of polystyrene, the active ingredient of napalm, is made in Canada. Therefore Canada is implicated in this immorality.

But Dow points out its napalm production accounts for less than one per cent of its business. Opponents then say it would be a negligible loss to discontinue napalm production.

Pro-Dow forces on campus offer two arguments: the first skirts any moral issue and claims Dow Canada personnel work on a vast number of projects, so workers, those recruited annually from campuses, are not directly involved in producing napalm.

The second argument says it is the right of students to apply for a job of their choice, and the majority should not deny them this right.

Mali - Senegal - Ivory Coast

It does not happen every day that someone offers you the chance to go to Africa and study the development of several countries. Here is your chance for an outstanding experience.

During the summer of 1968, World University Service of Canada will sponsor a group of Canadian students and professors to study the development of three African countries, namely Ivory Coast, Mali and Senegal.

The summer will be divided into the following phases:

1) The Canadian delegates will fly from Montreal or New York to Dakar, Senegal for a special one week introductory programme, starting in the last week of June, 1968.

2) Delegates will stay in the capital cities, for about 10 days each and will divide into small groups to travel for short periods in these three countries. During the study tours, the group will observe and discuss the traditions, culture, resources and aspirations of the different areas visited.

3) During the last week of the summer, the various travel groups will assemble again in Abidjoui, Ivory Coast. They then will hold a concluding session during which they will discuss their impressions of different aspects of African life.

There is also the possibility of taking part in a work camp in some other West African country after the end of the seminar.

The basic requirements for the seminar are:

- 1) Fluency in French.
- 2) Returning to Lakehead University in the fall 1968 as a full time student.
- 3) Canadian citizen or permanent resident.

If you think that you qualify, or have any questions concerning the International Seminar, contact Mark Mueller, (622-9777). The deadline for applications is Dec. 11, 1967.

ANTONIO. I pray you, good Bassanio, let me know it.
And if it stand as you yourself still do,
Within the eye of honour, be assured
My purse, my person, my extremest means
Lie all unlocked to your occasions.

BASSANIO. Bullshit!

ANTONIO. You know me well, and herein spend but time
To wind about my love with circumstance:
And out of doubt you do know more wrong
In making question of my uttermost
Than if you had made waste of all I have.

(Enter Portia and Launcelot Gobbo. Exeunt Bassanio.)

ANTONIO. Shall I compare thee to a summers day?

PORTIA. Get off the pot, Antonio.

ANTONIO. Is this a digger I see before me?

GOBBO. Flower Power!

(Exeunt Antonio, Gobbo. Enter Jessica.)

PORTIA. By my troth, Jessica, my little body is weary of this great world.

JESSICA. My father Shylock yearns to invest thy body at 6 1/2 per cent.

(Exeunt Portia with Jessica explaining)

SCENE II Belmont

(Enter Antonio, Shylock and Bassanio)

ANTONIO. Prithee sir, I have a most urgent matter, at hand for which I need nine thousand ducats.

SHYLOCK. $14. 50

BASSANIO. (to Antonio, aside) I toldest thou so.

ANTONIO. Double, double, toil and trouble,
Editorials boil, Editorials bubble.

SHYLOCK. (Aside) How like a fawning publisher he looks.

BASSANIO. He hates my sacred nation, and he rails,
On me, my bargains and my well-won thrift.

SCENE III

(Enter Prince of Aragon, Tubal, Portia)

ARAGON. By this scimitar, that slew Gobbo, and a Persian prince that won three fields of Sultan Solymán, I would o'erstare the sternest eyes that look, Outbrave the heart most daring on the earth, Pluck the young suckling cubs from the she-bear, Yea, mock the lion when 'a roars for prey, To win thee lady.

PORTIA. Sure you would buddy, but Shylock has rented me for 6 1/2 percent.

TUBAL. (aside) I'll drink to that.

SCENE IV. Belmont

(Court Scene)

PORTIA. I am thoroughly informed of the case. Which is Antonio? Which is Shylock?

SHYLOCK. I am Shylock.

ANTONIO. He sure is.

PORTIA. The quality of the University is not strained:
It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven upon the place beneath. It is twice blessed;
It blesseth him that gives and him that takes.
Is Antonio not able to discharge the money?

BASSANIO. Yes. Here I tender it for him in the court of the financial committee.

PORTIA. It must not be. Why this bond is forfeit:
And lawfully by this Shylock may claim
A pound of flesh, to be by him cut off
Nearest the paper's heart.

SHYLOCK. O most noble judge! O wise and upright judge!

PORTIA. Are there scales here to weigh the flesh?

SHYLOCK. I have them ready.

PORTIA. Have by some surgeon, Shylock, on your charge,
To stop the wounds, lest those he serves bleed to death.

SHYLOCK. Is it so nominated in the bond?

PORTIA. Ay. For the state, not for Antonio.

TUBAL. Ah gimme that old, soft, shoe.....

Will Shylock get his?
Can Antonio live on $14. 50 until April?
Does the state really care?
Will Old Gobbo ever be heard from again?
Will we get thrown out of English 2a6?
For the answers to these and other startling questions, tune in again next week.

On student power

By Day Laban

In centuries past, philosophers used to write treatises entitled "On the Nature of Things", "On Metaphysics", "On the Principles of Morals." The implication was that these essays were one man's opinion, an exercise in thought, rather than a dogmatic stating of facts. I would ask that this be judged in the same fashion: the statement of a personal opinion, and an enquiry as to to where we are going . . .

It is probably correct to assume that the word "student power" is an adaptation of the phrase "black power", so often used in reference to the racial turbulences in the United States. It denotes a minority group's realization of its own strength, and of its intent to impose its will upon others. It is a flexing of the muscles, a testing of the sinews, the first stirring of a young giant's might.

But it is more than that; there is a connotation of animosity, an almost revolutionary approach, an "out with the old, in with the new" feeling that may well do more to destroy than to improve the structure of our universities.

The sharing of knowledge, a University's reason for existence, has become secondary to a political manipulation, whereby the University is broken up into three warring factions; Students, Faculty and Administration. Those who stir up the controversy would have one believe that there is no common ground on which these factions can meet to discuss their differences, that this is a "cold war" between three different ideologies. It is rather like an argument about religion between three die-hard members of different denominations: interesting to listen to, but hardly likely to come to a satisfactory conclusion.

I am quite aware that this three-way battle is taking place on campuses all over Canada and the United States, that it is not peculiar to Lakehead University. And possibly this is the most worrying aspect of the situation: just because others start a certain trend, is it necessary that we too jump on the band-wagon? Any band-wagon? Even one, that, when the sound of its rumbling passage dies down, will leave behind the shattered remains of what so many people spent so many years to build? The "divide and conquer" tactics employed by those who would sow dissent have been used many, many times before, and rarely have they led to lasting improvement. He who sows dissent shall reap chaos.

Students have always been the most important single factor in the structure of a University, for a very simple reason; no students, no University. But, per se, the student body is in constant flux: only a very few remain on campus longer than three years, and during those years their main preoccupation is with their studies rather than with the manner in which the institution of learning, to whose tutelage they have entrusted themselves for a few brief years, is being run. At least that is how it used to be, in the days when administrators had time to do what they are paid to do, i.e. administrate, rather than weathering the onslaught of sit-ins, stand-ins and lie-ins, and slinking down the hall-ways wearing dark glasses on the day the student-newspaper comes out.

Student government itself is in constant flux. Witness the events at L.U. in recent weeks. Is this not an indication that before one can rule the world one must be able to rule oneself?

In any form of government, the greatest essential is unity, the striving toward a common goal. And if the students among themselves fail to realize what this common goal is, if they relentlessly criticize their elected officials, if they protest without purpose, if they fail to impose discipline upon themselves, how then would they rule the University?

Every organization needs a "constant" to function efficiently. Because of its ever-changing nature, the student-body cannot provide this constant. A long-range view of the aims and functions of the University can be taken only by those who will be called upon to carry out these plans and bring them to fruition.

Such a constant is the Senate. Not the student-body, not the often-nomadic Faculty nor even the Administration, but the Senate. Student representation on the Senate is indeed a great step forward. But in order to represent the student-body as a whole, these student-representatives must know what its aims are. As things are, I wish them the wisdom of Solomon and the patience of Job: they'll need it.

Historical discovery

Situation difficult in years of yore

(Following this short introduction, is a translation of perhaps, one of the most important archeological discoveries since the Dead Sea Scrolls. It was found among the remains of what appears to have been an official carrier for a minor official in the ancient province of La-Ked Yu. The message was apparently intended, for the official's counterpart in a neighboring country. I feel that the contents of this message are of such importance that I am passing them on to you for your evaluation.

A. F. Thoroughsearch
Professor of Archeology
World University.

My dear Foo . . . (here the parchment is too worn for translation) . . . things have become steadily worse. As I have already covered the social structure of our country in previous communications I will not bother to review that informaion, but, will get right to the heart of the current crisis.

At present Emperor Tam Lin is away from the country on an ocean cruise and the country is paralyzed. Neither Arts Minister Ra-The Ne nor Minister of Alchemy Har Te seem to have the authority to act. This situation seems to belie the rumors that Tam Lin is a mere figurehead.

As you know, our largest city Nu Lie is divided into three sections; The Place of the Sacred Books, Living Quarters for Grand Tutors, and, Slaves Meeting Halls. I, being one of the Tutors, have in the past, had access to the Place of the Sacred Books. New restrictions instituted by the Royal Guard make it almost impossible for us to enter within the walls of that section.

Ah, my friend, I can see your face twisted in horror. Such a plight for a proud profession! Further, we must move along the sealed walls in the same pathways as the slaves! No, don't put it down, there is more. Yes, More! One of the most revered Tutors Ree Sir Cha was waylaid in a hidden staircase in Nu Lie. Those responsible for his death were either Slaves, seeking to steal his books, or Royal Guards. My suspicions are concentrated on the latter.

The situation is exacerbated by the attitude of the Royal Guards. They seem to think that the entire town of Nu Lie should be their exclusive domain. Granted that the slaves meeting halls might be moved, but our residences? Never!

Well, perhaps, I shall have to endure it a while longer; at least until Tam Lin returns. Although, I must confess, I have heard seditious talk among the younger Tutors and am finding myself listening with greater and greater interest.

What is a University?
Good question:

Lakehead University is one, but it is not very much like the one called Oxford, and even less like the Bay Area Free University, San Francisco.

Somebody is putting us on.

Will the REAL University please stand up.

For clues, I turned to the Lakehead University Calendar—but it wasn't one! It misses out three whole months, and doesn't have a single guide to the phases of the moon. It doesn't even have a pretty picture so it can be hung on the wall. Actually, it is just a throw-away paperback.

But, I thought, someone in authority (and therefore very sensible) insists that the university put out a guide, and that it not be called a guide. So, continuing my research, I drafted an alternative, a Menu. It is brief, familiar, inexpensive, and easy to read.

Menu

Lakehead University of Arts, Science, and Technology featuring: no nonsense, home-cooked facts and data

Competitive Prices

Dinner for 1700—choice of:

Arts (a subtle blend from the established kitchen of North America)

Science (bland but filling—for men on their way to the top)

Technology (reduced price—served separately—no guarantee)

Hors D'Oeuvres: never-filling, delightful, and quaint (ancient recipe from Mrs. Alma Mater)

Beverages: a complete selection of moderate brews and effective sedatives (bar managed by Athletic Diversion Department)

Main Course: good old-fashioned all-Canadian meat and potatoes—never too spicy—"just like mom always serves"

Desert: "prejudice pudding"—light and refreshing but sticks to the ribs—you may never want to eat anything else

Floor Show: our own unique group of intellectuals, radicals, Christians, hippies, etc. perform daily—your opportunity to see real live eccentrics

Special: Bonus Coupon—entitling all our satisfied (i.e. full and without upset stomachs) patrons to instant respectability

That's a lot better than a 200 page Calendar that isn't a Calendar. But it doesn't answer the question "What is a University." I'll try again next week.

(Note to collectors: After the revolution of 1971, the above menu could be priceless. The one used at the Winter Palace in Petersburg on the evening of November 7, 1917, recently sold for a small fortune.)

OFF-CAMPUS RECRUITING

November, December, and January are heavy recruitment months on campus—for summer and full-time employment. Dow, along with makers of arms and munitions which eventually find their way to Vietnam will continue to be harassed on campus.

The answer for many may be to follow the Central Intelligence Agency's lead in the States. They will conduct their interviews off campus from now on, a policy decision which is a direct reflection of recent disruptions CIA recruiting has led to on many campuses. It is starting even now.

At McGill University several companies have opted for off-campus interviewing. McGill Principal H. Locke Robertson announced that three companies who have not yet had on-campus interviews, have consented to conduct interviews off campus in order to avoid disturbances."

Murray Smith is a 6'1" Bus. Admin. 11 student of Fort William who patrols left wing for Nor'Westers. He is another member of the All Conference team and he placed third in the I. C. H. A., scoring 12 goals and 21 assists. As a rookie, "Big Murray" lettered in hockey and so far this season has shown great promise by scoring 6 of our 10 goals against the Soo.

Dave Siciliano of Science 11 is a 5'9", 175 lb. spark plug centre for the Nor'Wester Hockey Team. This is Dave's second year on the team after a very successful rookie season. Dave was an assistant captain of the I. C. H. A. champions, all-star centre, scoring leader with 15 goals and 22 assists in 12 games and the most valuable player. Dave also lettered in hockey and was the overall top scorer at L. U. with 19 goals and 37 assists in 19 games. Once again this year, he will play on the All Conference line of Smith, Siciliano and Stirrett.

Larry Hebert is a 5'6" guard from the faculty of Arts and from Fort William. Larry lettered in basketball last year, and was one of the backup guards. This year he gives the cagers needed reserve at guard. His top claim to fame is probably his column, Cooch's Corner or his attempts at cheer-leading.

Long trip tires team

The Nor'Westers hockey team lost their third straight game Friday night as they were defeated 6 - 1 by the Junior Varsity team in Houghton.

The game was played as an exhibition game.

The lone goal for the Lakehead squad was scored by Dave Siciliano at the 27 second mark of the first period. But the battle was all up hill from that point on.

Coach Henry Akervall attributed the loss to the long and tiring bus trip from the Lakehead to Houghton. The team left the Lakehead early Friday morning, and played that night.

The team is expected to be in better shape for the double-header against Bemidji State this weekend.

Jim Johnson is an Arts student with a history major. This 6'1" 180 lb. forward is from Fort William (Westgate, as you can see). Jim's humour is only surpassed by his basketball ability. In his rookie season last year, Jim averaged 14 pts/game, and was the leading rebounder on the team. He also had the highest shooting percentage on the team which helped gain him his letter in basketball.

COOCH'S CORNER

After a rather unsuccessful intercollegiate trip to the Soo, the Nor'Westers at least produced some humorous incidents on the bus trip. One occurred in a bridge game involving John Stefiszyn and Dave Nuttal on the one hand, and Boyd Hussey and Coach Henry Akervall on the other. John, in a subtle attempt to indicate what he wanted Dave to lead, came up with one of the best pieces of table talk heard in a long while. John leaned forward, belched, and said he had heartburn. No one realized the significance until Dave led a heart and they took the trick.

Another occurred when the bus driver was asked to stop along the highway for a much-needed "pit stop." As the line formed along the side of the bus—some two deep—a few cars passed by. The expression on the drivers' faces was priceless.

The last was appreciated only by a few. You can ask Al Johnson of the hockey team about former Leaf goalie Harry Yum Yum.

Murray Smith was the top performer for the Nor'Westers hockey team, scoring six of the ten goals in the first two league games.

Don Holmstrom also performed well, scoring 46 points on the weekend. Don captured CKPR's Sportsman-of-the-Week Award.

One of the reasons for the hockey team's losses stems from their lack of practice time. They better start getting in shape soon if they expect to compete with the Rumanian National Team on December 13.

One thing about these intercollegiate trips—the students are expected to come to school for all their classes even after returning home at 3 a.m. It was noted, however, that the Monday after the last trip, the two intercollegiate coaches did not show up until after twelve noon.

This week the SAS is planning on holding its first Homecoming Weekend, with a dance Friday night and basketball and hockey doubleheaders Saturday and Sunday against Bemidji State.

Get out and support your teams. Don't forget to get season's passes from the SAS, valued at $2.50 for each sport.

Once again I attended a local wrestling card. Although it certainly cannot be classed as a sport, it has to be one of the best forms of humorous entertainment around. After seeing "Poland's Native Son" Igor, I now know where all the Pollack jokes started. Handsome Harley Race seems to captivate the audience by spitting huge gobs out into the audience when he is hit in the face. Many think these are his teeth. All in all, it turns into a great night, one which university students would appreciate—especially if they were bombed.

Rumour has it that Chad Hannah is really Igor.

After seeing a National Hockey League game broadcast by an American announcer the other night, I realized just how far behind Canada they are in hockey knowledge. I'm sure it won't take long though, before they surpass us in the broadcasting of our own game. American sports announcers seem so professional compared to the people employed by the C.B.C.

I'm glad to say that the ARGUS now has an eastern correspondent in the person of Ken "Friar" Nicholson. Ken will occasionally drop a line about Eastern University Sports. So far he has been impressed with the calibre and pageantry of college football in the eastern conference. Ken also states that coaches in the east are impressed with the play of former Selkirk Ram Don Manahan, who played with Waterloo this year.

Ken rates the 18-18 tie between Western and Toronto as the top game of the year. Toronto won the conference championship this year, while the highly-favoured Queen's Golden Gaels finished a disappointing second. Western was third and McGill last.

Nor'Westers split with Wesmen

By Larry Hebert

The Lakehead University Nor'Westers basketball team brought its intercollegiate record to 2-2 with a win Friday night and a loss Saturday against the University of Winnipeg Wesmen.

Friday night at Winston Churchill, before a packed house, Don Holmstrom led the hoopsters to a 48-39 win over the Wesmen. Holmstrom almost single-handedly took care of the L.U. scoring, picking up 22 points in the first half and 28 in the entire game.

Another reason for Lakehead's win was their good defense and fast break.

Coach Birger was very pleased with the big three—Don Holmstrom, Lou Pero, and Jim Johnston. They did an excellent job rebounding against a much bigger team. Birger stated that L.U. beat Winnipeg with superior hustle. But he was still disappointed with his team's inability to put two good halves together.

In almost every game this year, the Nor'Westers have faltered in the second half.

Other top scorers for L.U.

were Cameron with 6, and Holman with 5. For the Winnipeg University Wesmen, Irwin led the way with 14 while Macy had 7 and Crockett 5.

Saturday afternoon at Lakeview the Wesmen came back to win a thriller by a score of 57-51. Nor'Westers held a half-time lead, and although they played their best half of the season, it wasn't good enough as the Wesmen got hot in their shooting.

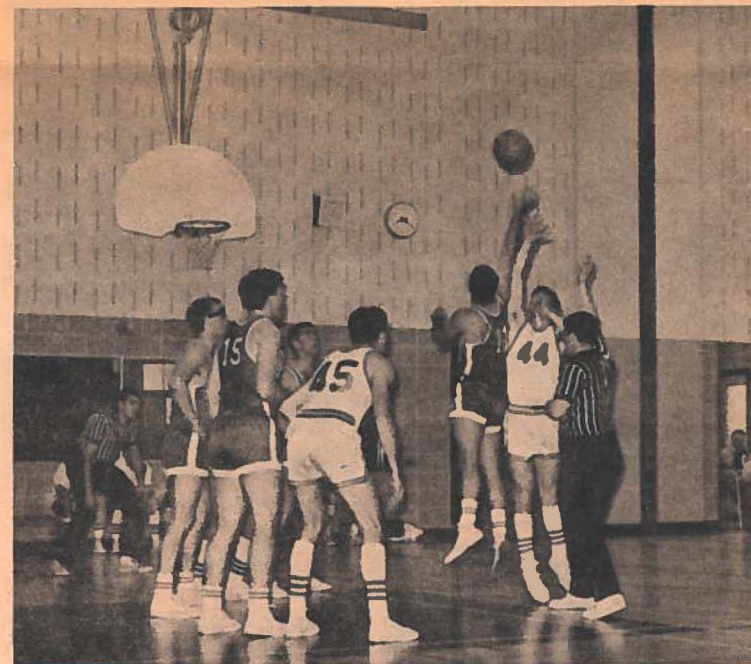

Lakehead continued to fast break Saturday, but it wasn't enough to overcome Winnipeg's precise shooting.

Once again it was Holmstrom who led the way for L.U. He picked up 15 points. Holman had 12 and Cameron 10 in Saturday's match. For the winning Wesmen, Macey, their top guard, had 15 while Crockett netted 12 and Johnson had 10.

The top players for Lakehead Saturday were Pero, who rebounded well, and Cameron, who played a good defensive game as well as leading the Nor'Westers fast break.

The weekend doubleheader also provided the fans with their first glimpse of the Lakehead cheerleaders. They did a god job and have several new cheers that went over very well.
